Message:

Special Agent Lucchesi,

This was from Interpol, not The Hague PD, I await their response. I did find that the EPO is chartered in Munich and I am waiting momentarily from a call from the head of the EPO legal department, to help understand their actions when fraud has been committed against the thrity member nations of the organization. Patent rights are going to be lost momentarily if we do not get them in suspension.

If you are ok with call to these Interpol (world men in black) thanks, othterwise please advise asap.

Eliot

Re: International Patent Theft

Dear Jackie Selebi:

We are trying to contact the President of Interpol regarding an international theft that is being investigated in several international and US Federal cases currently under way. The United States Patent and Trademark Office has issued suspensions on the intellectual properties in question and given us your information to contact regarding certain of these matters. The frauds committed upon the European Patent Office and the member states are under investigation. Additionally, Director of the USPTO Office of Enrollment and Discipline is personally handling approximately nine complaints against registered US patent attorneys who have committed the thefts. We are seeking to have similar police and agency intervention in Europe to suspend the activities of the guilty parties, mainly the patent attorneys abroad and to protect intellectual property assets from further damage.

A private call with you would be preferred or someone directly to you as these matters are of utmost importance in a time sensitive patent and inventor rights may be permanently lost unless criminal actions can be taken against the criminal activities that have taken place to effectuate such theft of intellectual properties. There are volumes of information regarding the crimes and a list will be provided once established lines of communication are established. I have attached a list of the crimes and ongoing investigation, in adobe pdf format for your review that have already been filed with various authorities.

If this email can be confirmed received it would be appreciated.

With best regards,
