I was out of town on Sunday and Monday and just got your various e mails. Jeff and I are meeting Tuesday morning to review the status of our discussions. My preliminary thoughts are to get a royalty agreement put in place for you and your family. If you have not structured something we should get the law firm started on that piece. It gives you a priority return ahead of other shareholders and is customary in these situations. Jeff and I have had discussions with another source of technology contacts and management advice and will try to bring focus to the discussions with Hassan and others this week. There are several different licensing revenue models which will work here depending on the end users objectives. We need to get started on the templates of those agreements. I look forward to meeting you and your family. Please feel free to call me at work or home with any questions which arise.
